

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An equipment housing for passive or active electronic equipment includes a back box and a front enclosure that is mounted to the back box via one or more hinges. The housing is suitable for mounting within a wall or against a wall. In one embodiment, the front enclosure includes a front panel and one or more drawers pivotally mounted to permit the stowage of equipment mounted in the drawer within the housing in a first pivotal orientation of the drawer and access to the equipment mounted in the drawer in a second pivotal orientation. In another embodiment, the front enclosure includes at least one frontal portion that is angled with respect to the front panel and extending outward therefrom to form ***. Equipment may be mounted to the frontal portion or a compartment . Acces so as to provide access to the front panel of the equipment. The front enclosure is pivotally mounted to the back box to provide access to equipment within the housing for purposes of wiring during installation, upgrades and service.

303476